

Milanko Govedarica, Ph.D.

Born June 12th 1963 in Orlovat, Serbia.

Studied philosophy at the University of Belgrade (Faculty of Philosophy) and got his B.A. (1988), M.A. (1997) and Ph.D. (2005) from this university.

1990: Became a teaching assistant at the Department of Philosophy (subject – History and Theory of Marxism) as well as a secretary of the Institute of Philosophy at the Faculty of Philosophy.

1997: Became a teaching assistant on the cathedra of Contemporary Philosophy.

2006: Became a assistant professor (subject – History of Contemporary Continental Philosophy).

He was a chief of an editorial board of the main serbian philosophical journal Theoria (2004-2008).

Took part in many international scientific conferences: Athens (1995), Budapest (1998), Chicago (1998), Graz (2007), Birmingham (2010) and others.

His areas of particular interest are philosophy of psychoanalysis, history and theory of eroticism and philosophy of psychiatry.

The main writings

Philosophy of Psychoanalysis, Belgrade, 2013.

Philosophical Analysis of Irrationality, Pancevo, 2006.

„Realism and anti-realism in the philosophy of psychiatry“, Theoria, Belgrade, 2/2012.

„Logic of consciousness and new materialism“, Theoria, Belgrade, 4/2009.

„Erotic freedom in the philosophy of Georges Bataille“, Theoria, Belgrade, 2/2009.

„Nietzsche's model of interpretation of philosophical tradition“, Theoria, Belgrade, 3/2008.

„On inteligibility of weakness of will“, Theoria, Belgrade, 3-4/2005.

„Consciousness and personal identity“, Theoria, Belgrade, 1-4/2002.

„Esthetic dimension and erotic quality“, The Philosophical Year-book, Belgrade, 11/1998.

„Eros, sexuality and tanatos“, Theoria, Belgrade, 3/1996.