MA Emilija Aćimović (2001) is a junior research assistant at the Faculty of Philosophy, University of Belgrade, at the Institute for Art History and the Department of Art History. She works as a teaching assistant in undergraduate studies of art history, in courses related to the history of architecture. Her research focuses on modern and contemporary Serbian architecture, particularly on renewed church architecture and individual architectural poetics from the late 20th and early 21st century. During her undergraduate studies, she was a scholarship holder of the Ministry of Education of the Republic of Serbia, and in the final year of both her undergraduate and master's studies, she received the Dositeja scholarship from the Fund for Young Talents of the Republic of Serbia, under the Ministry of Science, Technological Development and Innovation. She is also an associate of the National Museum of Serbia.
